The Christian Advocate devotes over a column of editorial space to the new Edilah. The history of this man," it says, "shows in a remarkable manner the credulity and guilibility of human nature. It does seem as though mankind, turning asde from the truth of God, are ready to embrace any form of imposture and error. * * As to his pretensions to prophette inspirations, and the gift of healing, they are only the profane and cuming means by which he misleads his credulous followers. His pretended cases of healing were only two or three instances, where the imagination controlled and corrected slight nervous disorders. The hundreds of rallures he ascribed to a want of faith upon the part of the discased in the power delegated him by God." The Central Presbyterian refers briefly

The Central Presbyterian refers briefly to the prophet:

"We read the accounts of Dowle's campaign in New York with mingled emotions. That he is a man of strong natural ability and of large personal magnetism, we doubt not, but he is an errate character, with large self-conceit, who has worked himself up to the belief that he has been called to a great mission in reforming and converting the world. He is a fanatic, ignorant, bold, with some executive power, and ability to draw money and increase it. His visit to New York, was doomed to failure from the first, and is now showing signs of a dismal break-down. We confess to a feeling of pity for his deduced followers, as well as indignation at the shameful pretentions of this false prophet. The Central Presbyterian refers briefly

BARNUM-BAILEY SHOW MAY WINTER HERE

The fact that Barum & Balley's shows will close their season in this city, has suggested the idea of attempting to induce the management to water here in the Horse Show building, as Bostock's wild animal show did last year. So far no definite proposition hay been made to the show management, nor is it certain that the building could be had for the purpose stated. The cost of transforming the amphitheatre would almost equal the revenue that would be derived and would necessitate considerate labor and expense in putting the building into fit condition for the next Hotse Show. Nor is it known that the show management would desire to occupy the building. The rooms of the Art Club building, where Miss Anne Letcher's work, done during last summer has been hung, will be open to the public to-day and to-morrow from 5 to 7 P. M.

Many who have not yet had the opportunity to do so will then be enabled to see Miss Fletcher's pictures and the copies made by her at the Louvre. Miss Maude Crawford and Mr. Carr Bowers were married Wednesday at 6:30 P. M. in "Summerdean," the suburban home of the bride's father, Mr. W. T. Crawford. The Rev. Dr. W. E. ANIMAL STORIES FOR OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Toby was the baby of the family and hough they made a clown of him he pairiot.

His trainer had dressed him up in the Stars and Stripes, and Toby was very proud of that.

"Greatest day of my life when I got into them jeans," he used to say. "Mean to stand up for the flag, and anybody who steps on that suit of mine will have to step on me," all of which was literally true.

HIT ME BUT SPARE OLD GLORY.
One day the clown came into the clug, dressed as a Spaniard, with a cump Spanish hat on one side of his head, ight to be ashamed of himself," and Toby, "to wear such a rig as all," and Toby sat down on his ample haunches.

"Git up, you!" sliouted the clown.
But Toby never winked.
"Gwan out er he e!" cried the little fellow, or I'll bang yer one."
This was too much for Toby.
"He's insulting the American flag," he muttered. "I don't care for myself, but no feller in the Spanish rig is goin' ter hit this flag," and he put back his two enormous ears.
"Hit me if you will, but spare the Old Glory," said Toby, in true Barbara Freitche style.

Old Glory," said Toby, in true Barbara Freitche style.

The clown was angry. He brought his wip down on Toby-thwack!

Toby knocked him down with his left ear and spanked him with his right. As he did so he cried, "That's Manila Bay and that's Santiago."

They never saw that Spanish rig again.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL

CRGANIZED IN FULTON The Rev. H. J. McKeefrey, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, will organize a Sun-Sunday evening.

This is an advancement in Catholic cir.

A large number of the Catholic people favor a chapel being erected in Fulton, but it is not known whether a proposition of the kind would be accepted just now by the Catholic clergy. It is known, however, that a few years age talk of the kind was indulged in, and contributions for such a purpose were freely offered. Mr. James Grant, who owns considerable real estate in Fulton, offered a large site of land (voluntarily) to erect the chapel, besides considerable money.
There were other clitzens who volunteered to contribute in the hundreds.
Were a matter of the kind considered at this time it is thought that these free offers of long age would again be tendered, along with many others.

FEVER SITUATION IS MUCH WORSE

The News from Monterey is Not Very Encourag-

Late information received here from Mexico, where Virginia missionaries are at work in a region infested by yellow fever, is by no means oncouraging. Great centern continues to be felt here, and the Rosebuds, an organization of children under the Virginia Conference, who are in charge of the mission, are sending in their pennies for its relicf.

In a recent letter Professor Fletcher Campbell, who is at the head of the Instituto Laurens, states that Miss Davis and the other missionaries are well, and that Carlos Aguilas, one of the Bible students, who was ill with the fever, has recovered. He adds:

"The yellow fever situation grows worse in Montercy daily. All Americans who could do so fiave left the city. Four of those who remained have died, and some of the rest are ill with the fever, I shall be very, very glad when cold weather comes and I can get back and gather up the broken ends."

Dixey got the best of it all the time, and Mr. Rice wrote another piece called "Adonis," in which Dixey was the whole show, with a whole lot of pretty women around him.

A big fortune was made for Rice with "Adonis," and Dixey was famous.

Now it is a question with the theatrical critics as to whether Dixey or Goodwin is the leading comedian of the country with the majority in favor of Dixey.

And that leads us up to the story we started to tell.

Dixey and us were sitting in the Morton House lobby one day in New York, talking about the weather, Weish rarebits and things, when a man entered R. U. E.

"My, my." said Dixey, as his hand went into his pocket. "You must need something. Here, go out and get a turkish bath, some new clothes, a hat, a pair of shoes and a shave, and if you have anythers left, get something to at." thing left, get something to eat.

Then Dixey dumped the contents of his pockets and his purse on the desk, and, after the man had protested, but had been persunded to take the funds, he went out with tears in his eyes, and we didn't have enough to warrant our going into the gets.

We have received some of those cigars,

We have received some of those cigars, and we wish to thank Emmett Levy for the same.

As a connoisseur, or words to that effect, we think we are a peach! but we like to get the opinion of others, so when we handed Tom Leath one of "The Man Abouts" and ordered him to smoke up and let us know what he thought of the did so and said it was so good he it, he did so, and said it was so good he was going to stop smoking the brands his friends have been giving him.

That is enough and that settles it.

After that we went out on Broadway, and down to the old Star Theatre.
Dixey stuck his hand in the window of the box office and whispered something to the man inside. The latter shoved a five out to him and we went over across the street and got some Welsh rarebit, after all, and we wonder if Dixey will recall the incident as he makes that rarebit to-night on the Academy Stage.
